During the lay-off of Jos. Moore, Bank Thomas will attend to his watch at the Metropolitan.

J. H. Ward, railroad contractor and all around good fellow of Las Vegas, registers at the San Felipe.

Miss Maggie, daughter of Judge William D. Lee, has returned from a pleasant visit with friends at Las Vegas.

Dr. T. H. Burgess, who has been feasting on oranges, limes, bananas and other tropical fruits at Hermosilla, Mexico, returned home last night.

Mrs. Minnie, niece of Major and Mrs. Paley, now on a visit at Santa Fe, and Mrs. McLean of Albuquerque, during the month of January.

Mrs. T. B. Mills, wife of the San Miguel senator, gave a reception at the Palace hotel on New Year's evening to the members of the legislature.

The new board of county commissioners met this morning and elected J. M. Sandoval chairman, and at once proceeded to the transaction of business.

E. F. Kitton, representing the Rattan Warming and Ventilation company, Chicago, is here. His object is to superintend the placing of the warming and ventilation system in the territorial university.

T. H. Ward, a first-class brickmason, who was with James McCorrister at Winnipeg, on the Red river of the North, a number of years ago, is in the city, and Mac made it pleasant for his old time friend all day Saturday and Sunday.

This morning a fire occurred in the sitting room of the residence of Jacob Wessman, and only prompt work by the gentleman prevented a most disastrous conflagration. The slaves got out of bed and fell over, bringing down the stove pipe in the fall. Several fine rugs were totally destroyed and the carpet badly damaged. The loss will amount to about $100 covered by insurance in J. H. Bushnell's agency.

Late yesterday afternoon a dispatch was received by Undertaker Strong, asking him to ship on the next train a coffin for the body of the wife of Bob G. Marmon, whose death occurred at Laguna a few hours before. The telegram gave no particulars. The many friends of Mr. Marmon sympathize with him in his trouble. The funeral took place at Laguna this afternoon.

(From the Daily, Jan. 5.)

Noble has already selected a handsome diamond ring and a pair of diamond earrings, which he will present to the young lady of his choice. It is understood that V. P. Eddie will accompany Noble to Paducah, and see that the nuptial knot is properly tied. This interest in advance extends to Mr. and Mrs. Trimble congratulations.

George Shobard, an old timer who was in old Albuquerque thirty years ago and worked for Barlow & Sanderson, stage line owners, is here, on his way to Holbrook, to work for J. H. Ward, the railroad contractor. Yesterday Mr. Hubbard visited the old town, and the ravages of time had somewhat changed the appearances of things since thirty years ago. He met old man Pohmer, the pioneer baker, whose family troubles are gradually putting him down to the grave and engaged in conversation. Tom Past and many other acquaintances of the years that have passed. After concluding his work with Mr. Ward, Mr. Hubbard will probably return to the city and remain here indefinitely.

The new county commissioners are hard at work. Among the list of road supervisors appointed the following is taken: Richard Lusted was appointed road supervisor for precinct No. 12, new town; Jose Gutierrez for precinct No. 13, old town; Manuel Sanchez for precinct No. 5, Basconia; Atanacio Montoya for precinct No. 22, Candelaria; W. A. Maxwell for precinct No. 27, and John T. Spies for precinct No. 30, Gallup. S. H. Bogardus was appointed justice of the peace for precinct No. 24, Walence. Santiago Sanchez was appointed judge of election for precinct No. 4, in place of Jose Dominguez y Grisegas, who was disqualified on account of being unable to read and write. Toribio Paolini was appointed judge of the election for precinct No. 22, case Juan Garay, Garay who absented from the precinct.

Thieves at Baynes.

Last night about 7 o'clock four men called at the side door of the second hand store of C. W. Haynes and asked to be admitted, stating that they wanted to purchase a pair of shoes. Mr. Haynes and wife, being old people and as busness was slow, had retired till the evening, but the men were told to go to the front door and they would be admitted. On getting inside, one of the men, medium in height and sparsely built, bargained with Mr. Haynes for a pair of shoes and kept them on in constant conversation. The other three were not able to fit in during the talk managed to conceal under their coats two overcoats, a dress coat and a vest. The man who was bargaining for the shoes lacked five dollars of having enough money to purchase them, but at the suggestion of one of his pals, they had evidently secured enough plunder to agree to return in a few minutes with the necessary change and would take the shoes. Mr. Haynes stayed up for an hour waiting their return, but they failed to get back and he then retired. This morning the goods were missed and he knew then that his customers of the early part of the night were the thieves who had stolen them. The vest was picked up this morning a few yards from the house, where the thieves had dropped it in their flight. Mr. Haynes states that one of the party is a largely built man, the other three medium. It is his impression that they are members of a gang of sneak thieves, who have recently arrived in the city. The robbery was reported to the police, who are working on the case.

Basel Schmidt.

A. C. Schmidt, who passed as a Chicago Punkerton detective in this city several months of last year and who got into the good graces of the mistress of old Jake Longworth, afterward marrying her, disposing of her household goods and leaving with the family for Chicago, has left his wife according to a letter received the other day from her by Ben Moyers. The woman states that Schmidt has skipped from Chicago, leaving the family in actual want, and taking with him everything he could lay his hands on. It is the woman's opinion that her truant husband will sooner or later turn up in Albuquerque, before leaving here he secured valuable papers to some property belonging to her and that he will make a desperate effort to dispose of the same. When in this city Schmidt made himself conspicuous around the police court room, and while he did not do anything contrary to law he was regarded by town officials and the police as a very shrewd, designing rascal. It was predicted when the woman married the man that he would leave her in the lurch.

Killing at Isleta.

Last Saturday night Romualdo Abeyta, a prominent and wealthy Indian of Isleta, was aroused from his slumbers by some one knocking at his door. For a time he did not answer the knock, but seeing that the person would not leave unless he responded, he got out of bed and going to the door, opened it. He stepped from the door a few yards but could see no one, and just as he turned to go back to the house three shots were fired at close range and Abeyta fell over mortally wounded. The body was carried into the house by the wife when the wounded man died a few moments later. The village was aroused and after a thorough search of the town, no clue to the assassin could be ascertained. Abeyta was a popular man among the Indians of Isleta, and the affair is shrouded in mystery. He was buried in the Indian burying ground at Isleta.

The Beauteous.

The snow fall of yesterday morning and the night before was nearly three inches deep, it was the heaviest that had occurred in the Rio Grande valley since January, 1885, and though but little of it is left at this writing it furnished the people a deal of sport while it lasted. Such a rarity in this valley that when it comes it attracts general attention, and yesterday morning every sort of improvised sled that could be fixed up was on the streets, the horses wearing collars or anything else that would make a noise, and everybody seemed disposed to get all the fun possible out of it while it lasted. But the cattle men enjoyed it most, for it insures good grass next spring, and good grass means fat steers and they mean money.

Managers of the Copper Sun stable.

Several railroad boys collect at Noble Trimble's livery stable, as passing and picked up a fight with Ed Bradford. Ed's stable associates rallied to his assistance and soon had the railroad boys under control. The quarrel was all over an old coat.
